FILM & NEW MEDIA SCREENING

Friday, January 28, 2022

7:30pm, DeRoy Center for Film Studies

Welcome to the Film & New Media division's first screening of 2022!

We hope you enjoy the productions crafted by the incoming and returning students. Tonight we highlight a variety of works from visual story, pre-visualization, editing, and animation, to name a few, and our Thesis and Capstone Trailers to conclude the show! I'd also like to extend our gratitude to our collaborators in performance in all the arts divisions who make our work so much more than we could accomplish on our own.

It has been a remarkable first semester of adjustments and adaptations. Our students have come a long way since their arrival last semester continuing to adapt, weathering unknowns and finding innovative ways to sharpen their storytelling skills while sharing meaningful collaborations.

With great appreciation, I want to thank Film & New Media faculty, Lesley Alicia Tye, Bailey Sitton, and Admin Assistant Cory John, for their dedicated collaboration and continued development of our program. Please also take a moment to meet and welcome Trevor Byrne, Filmmaker in Residence, we are already grateful to have him with us this season.

Enjoy the show!
