Poem by Ivan Pelley, Key West, Fla.:

When you sit down and you see them and hear them and think them.
Then you wonder: who sent them who created and sent her,
to my heart to my brain,
to my lungs
To my mind in the rain
And the gray owl above, looking-swooping, gazing Down, down, down
In the blue; blue black rain
Where can we find them
Meet them & greet them with the gray owl up or down, around We'll see if we can find them
Let's sing
Let's sing
Let's sing- let's singe
our soul on inside
And we dream we see Them turning as it is storming
The gray owl sits And watches the moon
As the sunrises on the set mourning.

Composing is how I make my world simple. Life moves at a million miles per hour, and by writing music I remove its complexities for myself. "Soundscapes" is perhaps a contradiction to this—it is a representation of the complicated world of sound that I live in. I struggle with hyperacusis, misophonia, and pulsatile tinnitus.

Hyperacusis is a hearing disorder affecting less than 1 in 50,000 people. For me, it means that my tympanic muscle is unable to protect the sensitive areas of my inner ears, causing severe inflammation from common sounds such as a car engine. Some days I am in so much pain that I can barely hold a conversation because a human voice is too loud.

Misophonia is a disorder where every day sounds can trigger unreasonable emotional responses—rage, disgust, panic. A few years ago I could barely sit in a classroom for five minutes before I would begin to have intrusive thoughts from anger. I wore headphones for hours and hours every day. In “Soundscapes,” I represent this using a metronome—a very real trigger for me.

Pulsatile tinnitus is a subcategory of tinnitus where sufferers experience whooshing or other rhythmic noises inside of the ear. I find it similar to when I have water stuck in my ear—except it never goes away. This will be featured in a new movement in the future.

“Soundscapes” is a unique auditory experience, especially for those who struggle with sensory processing. Please take care of yourselves as you listen to this. I have walked out of many concerts because I am having a tough time, and I won’t take it personally if an audience member needs to leave. I hope that you will find empathy for sufferers after spending a few minutes in my world.

Graduation Ball

Choreography and Concept after David Lichine with Revised and New Choreography by Joseph Morrissey
Music by Johann Strauss II, arr. Antal Doráti

Graduation Ball is a ballet that premiered in 1940 in Sydney, Australia by the Original Ballet Russe. It sets itself in 1840 at a Viennese girls finishing school that welcomes the city's military academy cadets to visit for a night of dancing, fun and mischief upon the eve of graduation. The ballet has had several revisions since its premiere and is most notably known for its uplifting music and dancing with themes of first-romance and growing up.

These performances of Graduation Ball are presented in respect and honor for those dealing with and affected by the ongoing crisis in Ukraine.

Graduation Ball

Choreography and Concept after David Lichine
with Revised and New Choreography by Joseph Morrissey
Music by Johann Strauss II, arr. Antal Doráti

Graduation Ball is a ballet that premiered in 1940 in Sydney, Australia by the Original Ballet Russe. It sets itself in 1840 at a Viennese girls finishing school that welcomes the city's military academy cadets to visit for a night of dancing, fun and mischief upon the eve of graduation. The ballet has had several revisions since its premiere and is most notably known for its uplifting music and dancing with themes of first-romance and growing up.

These performances of Graduation Ball are presented in respect and honor for those dealing with and affected by the ongoing crisis in Ukraine.

THEATRE DESIGN AND PRODUCTION SHOWCASE

Theatre Design and Production students in the Theatre Arts program are involved in producing events across campus. This year their work as Designers (Set, Costume, Lights, Sound, Props, and Projections) was seen in Theatre Arts productions of You On The Moors Now, The Lower Depths, String: A New Musical, Pippin, The Process, A Winter's Tale, The Penelopiad, and Oklahoma! Additionally, the Design and Production students managed and designed the Student Directed One-Act Festival, collaborated with the Dance and Opera Departments, supported Collage, Winterlochen, and Campus Community Meetings! The students have compiled their newest work to share with you. Please engage them all with questions about their work and their process as they have worked exceptionally hard this year! Thank you for your support and we look forward to seeing you on the Harvey Stage.

I ask my friend to sleep call with me via sonnet
For J

because the dark is a desert—heater cranked and blankets scalloped: false ocean that I may part because I become Moses at midnight, hunched before holy texts penned in 1337speak and light mode because prophets are birthed by necessity and not choice: body refusing to become an iceberg because I am the titanic's orchestra, fingers shaking against taut strings, playing Adams instead of praying because names hold power—God, Voldemort, Insomnia—and a weary teenage girl is not worthy because I become a seagull that lets itself ricochet between waves until it drowns each time that I dream and because you are a wired crab trap that refuses to move: just breathes and breathes and breathes

Zoe Reay-Ellers is a current senior attending Interlochen Arts Academy. She edits for a host of literary magazines, and her work has appeared in such publications as Blue Marble Review, Eunoia Review, and, of course, Red Wheelbarrow. This year she also received a Silver Medal with Distinction for her portfolio from the Scholastic Art and Writing Awards.
